Progress Assesment Log

ASSESSOR: Agent Nano
STATUS: Major breakthrough???

IN-PROGRESS NOTES

OK OK OK... listen, LISTEN. I know this is going to sound really insane and you guys probably think I have gone crazy, but it's all clocking now.

I'm writing this log at 23:54, October 25th. The past few days have been full of random tests and experiments on that freaky arcade machine but I think I've finally cracked the code. LITERALLY. Let's go all the way back for a minute. That electricity report energy dossier thing. There was a huge energy spike on the 23rd and that's what started all of this.

That's the same night me and Agent Mega met POI-1 at the Reckoning machine, that weird cosplayer. BUT BUT BUT BUT BUT. He WASN'T a cosplayer!!! It's all making sense. When we finally got the game source code on the 24th, the code analysts reverted and told me that one of the character "classes" (coding thing) was completely missing.

That could only mean one thing... The character. Escaped. But the bigger, more worrying question is WHY?

AREA OF CONCERN

If my theory is correct, then A VIDEO GAME CHARACTER HAS ESCAPED INTO THE REAL WORLD!!!! CALL THE MILITARY!!

STATUS: Immediate concern?? 10/10??? Code red? Blue? Green? All of them?!
