A goodbye from an old friend :)

Hey, hey, hey... They really can't know I'm writing this. I mean, it counts at the least as treason and breach of protocol, but after the work you've been doing over the past 4 days with these random anomalies and updates, you deserve the truth, even if it jeopardises my future here. I'm sticking my head out for you buddy! Anyways, the situation out here has gotten way worse... Remember my little theory?? Turns out I was right. Obviously. A little too right... Forget the Wenoti arcade, our POI was just the first of a digital jailbreak. Countries all around the world have been contacting the etiNuxe Intelligence Agency with reports of video game characters disappearing from arcades without a trace??? The Government doesn't want news of this getting out. Maybe they know something? Or its another way to get a quick buck. Either way, that's the real reason why EXUN got suspended. Don't listen to their fancy jargon... That's all from my end. Agents like us are being relocated, so I guess I better get packing. What are you going to do now?
